Where are plastic lockers used?

Plastic lockers are used in locations such as pool areas, locker rooms, health clubs, gyms, restaurants, schools, colleges and a variety of other locations. Salsbury plastic storage lockers are the perfect choice for customers looking for a sleek, attractive design that reflects their facility.

How long does a plastic locker take to ship?

Plastic lockers typically ship within 24 to 48 hours and are a great option when professional lockers are needed in high humidity environments. Plastic lockers are used in locations such as pool areas, locker rooms, health clubs, gyms, restaurants, schools, colleges and a variety of other locations.

Are plastic lockers better than wood lockers?

Although these lockers can often come with a higher up-front cost, the cost over time of plastic lockers tends to be the lowest. This is due to them being rust, corrosion, and water-resistant. This durable option will also tend to last you the longest, as typically metal lockers will rust and wood lockers are prone to water damage.

What are the different types of plastic lockers?

The 14% of visitors that pick this criteria are searching for the following kinds of plastic lockers: commercial lockers (34% of customers), school lockers (29% of customers), cubby lockers (19% of customers), home lockers (10% of customers), employee lockers (6% of customers), and gym & locker room lockers (2% of customers).

What is the difference between traditional and plastic lockers?

Traditional lockers and Plastic lockers share the same standard features, but Plastic Lockers are ideal for high-humidity moisture applications because they will never rust, rot, corrode, or fade. The Traditional Plus Collection is intended for more rugged applications.
