Batelco's Bahrain data center now 100% solar powered

Beyon Group's telecoms unit, Batelco, says one of its facilities has become Bahrain's first 100 percent green-energy-powered data center. The company this week announced the completion of Phase 2 of the company's Solar Park at the Beyon Data Oasis at Hamala. The data center is entirely powered by energy generated from the park.

Delivering on digital

Digital can be a key enabler of the energy transition; it can help drive and be a mechanism for transparency. For example, consider how digital can help your organization reduce direct emissions. By digitally preparing for service and maintenance calls before dispatch, energy companies can reduce truck rolls and waste at the frontline.
