Will Paraguay develop more solar and wind power projects?

The country plans to utilize a mix of renewable energy sources going forward to diversify its energy mix and increase its energy security. While scarcely existent today, Paraguay hopes to develop more solar and wind power projects in the future.

Does Paraguay have electricity?

Recording 99.95% electricity access at the close of 2019, Paraguay enjoys nearly universal access to electricity. In some remote locations, including the Chaco region of the country, inhabited by Indigenous Paraguayans, Paraguay utilizes solar plants to meet electricity needs.

Does Paraguay have hydroelectric power?

In fact, Paraguay has long produced more than enough hydroelectric power for its own needs, exporting the remainder to neighbors Brazil and Argentina. In 2019, Paraguay's generated 6% of its GDP from the exportation of 64% of its power production. Renewable energy in Paraguay has the potential to transform the nation.

What is the main energy source in Paraguay?

From the perspective of energy demand, the main energy source is biomass (44%), followed by hydrocarbons (40%) and, in a distant third place, electricity (16%). The main source of energy produced in Paraguay is thus the least used in the country.

Who owns the energy in Paraguay?

Itaipú alone typically provides over 80% of the energy consumed in Paraguay. It is a binational hydropower plant owned jointly with the government of Brazil (Itaipú Binational). Acaray is owned by the state-owned generation and distribution company, ANDE, while Yacyretá is owned jointly with the government of Argentina (Yacyretá Binational Entity).

What is the Atlas of the solar and wind energy potential of Paraguay?

The Atlas of the solar and wind energy potential of Paraguay is one of the tools developed by Itaipu to make visible data of great relevance for developers of these technologies interested in new generation projects in this country. That document reflects a promising future for solar technology.
