Frequently asked questions

For this purpose, each Power-Blox consumes a standby power of 7W - 10W in idle mode, depending on the operating mode and wiring. In order to prevent the battery from discharging due to the standby power in poor sunlight, for example during the winter months, we recommend switching off the Power-Blox with the main switch when not in use.

De-risking investments in mini-grids by enabling

The mobile Power-Blox technology allows for risk diversification over a project portfolio by utilising capacity there where it's needed. As the Power-Blox technology is mobile, Power-Blox can be removed when demand is low. Thus, generation capacity can be transferred between villages without incurring costs for underutilisation.
