What is a BIPV solar track & racking system?

As 'skeleton' of the PV solar power plant, the solar tracking and racking system is designed to support solar panels which are the major body for generating electricity. As a promoter and leader of clean energy solutions, Arctech Solar has also conducted in-depth exploration in the application field of the BIPV system.

Can a solar tracker boost a PV system's performance?

There is no other single balance-of-system (BOS) component that can boost a PV system's performance like a tracker. Arctech trackers are solutions to high return on investment and make solar projects economically profitable under cost pressure.

Where can I buy a solar tracker?

Any tools needed could be acquired at your local hardware store. Solar FlexRack's reliable TDP 2.0 Solar Tracker with BalanceTrac bundles an advanced tracker design with top-tier engineering and project support services to safeguard solar projects from unexpected costs.

What is an a-frame solar tracker?

The A-Frame uses a standard I-beam section to the solar tracker system. This allows seamless transition from driven I-beams to the A-Frames, leaving connection hardware the same. The leveling flanges allow for up to 20 in. of height adjustment to keep the A-Frame plum and level.

Where are FTC solar trackers delivered?

The FTC Solar team has more than 4.5 GW of trackers delivered around the world including in the US, Vietnam and Australia. As of 2021 we have supplied dozens of utility-scale arrays in various locations, including North Carolina and South Carolina, Maryland, Virginia, Utah, Iowa, Missouri, Michigan, Nevada,

Texas and California.

How do solar trackers work?

The helical piles or ground screws are driven with a rotary head. Then the A-Frame is attached to the piles with four bolts. The A-Frame uses a standard I-beam section to the solar tracker system. This allows seamless transition from driven I-beams to the A-Frames, leaving connection hardware the same.
