Solar waterproof mobile phone holder

Overview

What is a waterproof phone case?

The sturdy case protects your smartphone for extended periods at depths of up to 50 feet, so it's great for everything from skiing and surfing to snorkeling and swimming. This case has a control panel with a shutter button and a lanyard to keep your phone close.

Are waterproof phone cases safe for swimming?

Some waterproof phone cases and pouches come with a built-in lanyard that you can adjust around your neck or wrist for safe use in the water. If you're an experienced swimmer and have a waterproof phone case, you can bring it with you when swimming.

Are waterproof phone jackets (cases) waterproof?

Waterproof phone jackets, also known as cases, are indeed waterproof. They are typically made with materials like TPU or PVC, which are excellent at protecting phones from water damage. PVC cases in general are stronger and more durable than TPU cases.

Can you use a phone case underwater?

To use the case, you simply slip in your phone, lock the case, and you're good to go. The touch screen doesn't work while underwater, but the case comes with a compatible app and once you download it, you can easily switch from photo to video while in the water.

What is the best waterproof phone holder?

Pros: Cons: The Pelican Marine tops our list as the best waterproof phone holder. The soft TPU material offers a clear window design so you can send texts and snap photos while in water. That same TPU material also acts as a solid barrier, protecting your phone from drops and scratches.

What makes a good solar phone case?

A good solar phone case should be made from strong yet flexible plastic, such as ABS, that offers shock absorption and abrasion resistance while also protecting your device from oil, grease, dirt, dust, and other elements. Some manufacturers add rubberized sides or bumpers to their cases for added protection against falls.
